WHO WE ARE

Community Tech Network (CTN) is a nonprofit that specializes in helping low-income adults and seniors develop the digital skills to use the internet independently and safely.

WHAT WE DO

We provide learners with devices, digital literacy classes and assistance enrolling in home internet so that they can socialize online, participate in telehealth visits, support their children's education and much more!

WHY WE DO IT

Millions of Americans still lack access to the internet at home or the skills to use digital tools to find, analyze, create, and communicate. It is critical that everyone is connected to fully participate in the digital era.
Lack of internet is a social justice and public health crisis. Research estimates that about 40% of those who died of COVID-19 in the US were unable to access needed online resources like telemedicine because they lacked in-home internet. *CTN has seen the power that comes with being connected to the internet. More needs to be done to ensure that everyone has that right, and is given the opportunity for digital equity.
